WE are informed by the postmaster at Ridgeway, that the report that "the whole of the Columbia mail was put off at Ridgeway" is partly incorrect. Instead of leaving all the mail for Columbia at Ridgeway, only one package of letters was left. We suppose the balance of the Columbia mail accidentally got in the right pigeon that the humbug moneymaker, who is now of our intellectual progress. at the head of them would listen to our complaints. Kaelin.

Ordinary kaolin is the result of the decomposition of aluminous minerals, especially felspar of granitic and gneissoid rocks. Where the rocks have decomposed on a large scale the elay remains in vast beds of kaolin more or less mixed with free quartz and sometimes with oxide of iron from some of the other minerals present. Like other felspathic clays, kaolin, when pure, is very white and has an unctuous or soapy feeling.

WHAT THIS YEAR TEACHES.

Intensive and Diversified System, the Remedy--A Plan and its Costs, Profits etc. Stated.

To the Editot of the News and Herald: This year has proven beyond a doubt that we should adopt the intensive and diversified plan of farming. We have been plodding along in the way our fathers successfully pursued during slavery times, when they could command labor, had the virgin soil to till, and then, tradition says, the net profit was in the increase of the negro. Things have changed, labor has to be handled by the example of the white man and the soil almost exhausted. first of June, with no stand of cotton and depending on it almost alone to pay for every thing we used. I can't conceive of anything to compare the situation to, except in '86 when "the earth trembled." If we had commenced our farms with the above advised plans, by the first of June, we would have had good stands of cotton. to speak with candor-by the fact have been prepared early and manured, thereby retaining moisture and giving warmth to germinate seed. Besides we would have had other crops. This lack of system and intelligence has reduced the cotton crop onehalf. But fortunately the corn crop is good, and if we can only meet our obligations this fall, the outlook for another year is rather encouraging, as the buying of corn and meal runs up our accounts so enormously. The shortage in cotton will be quite a blow, coming at this time, when the farmers are just organizing and need money. But let us redeem this beautiful Godtavored country of ours, with its lovely climate and longevity, free American government, inhabited by the most patriotic and conrageous will grow almost anything we need if and on the west by lands of R. H. Jen properly handled. With these ideas nings and U. C. Trapp. prediminant in my mind, I submit the following to the plow:

12 acres of cotton will make say bales at 10 cents per pound, $320; 192 bushels cotton seed from said cotton at 12½ cents per bushel, $23; 7 of corn at 124 bushels to the acre, at $1 per peas off same land planted between hills of corn $21; 4 acres of oats, 25 bushels to the acre, 100 bushels at 75 for practical business. Money making cents per bushel, worth $75; 3 acres of wheat, 10 bushels to the acre 30 bushels at $1 per bushel worth $30: acre of Kaffir corn 75 bushels at $1 per bushel, worth $75; 2 acres of speckle peas 10 bushels at $1 per bushel, worth $10; 1 acre of vellow peas for rough feed, 4 loads at $4 per load worth $16; 1 acre of sugar cane for feeding stock, worth $10; 1 acre philosophical truth, cannot cultivate of sorghum cane, 100 gallons at 50 their board would cost $200 and $25 for hoeing, $225; $3 for cotton seed the following described property, to to plant; $1 for seed corn; $4.26 for wit: seed oats; $3 for seed wheat; $3 for seed peas; 50 cents for Kaffir seed; > pense $349.70, taken from income ($732 50) leaves a balance of $382.80 in favor of crop. I have'nt said anything about manure and its cost. Any farmer can make enough manure at home, including cotton seed, to go over his entire crop if he will fill and cleanse his stables once a month with leaves or pine straw and put in a rail pen, without covering, and left oval shaped water enough to cause it to decay. Now let us compare this crop with the average. Well, I don't know how many acres to say, somewhere between 1 and 40, and, all in corn and cotton. Five bales of cotton worth $200; cotton seed $15; 50 bushels corn and fodder off it, worth $55.

This makes the whole crop worth $270. Counting this crop the same as the other as to hands, mule rent, feed, hoeing, farm tools, blacksmithing, cotton seed and seed corn, will amount to young want to have something rather $338, which leaves the crop; in debt $63. The other gains, $382.80.
